TWENTY ROUNDS OF BATTING AT S. A. C. MONDAY

Lightweights and Heavies to Meet in Eight-Round Affairs With Middlets Traveling Four—Battle Royal to Open

Twenty rounds of boxing in the attraction at the Southern Athletic club for Monday night. Two eight-round affairs, along with a four-rounder, are holding the boards before Billy Hancock's boxing emporium.

Two Patterson, negro lightweight, is slated to meet Kid Roux, local brawler, in an eight-round affair in which should prove a tough and gripping battle all the way.

Battling Gabee, local negro heavy, will go up against Freddie Wilson, colored, in an eight-round bout. This should be a hard-fought battle from bell to bell for it marks the second time these two gladiators have squared punches and both are confident of winning the referee's decision when the eight rounds have been struck.

Patterson was the champion light-heavyweight among A. C. lightweights, having met and defeated every good one in the entire South with the exception of Gene Delmont, local light, who was defeated in a ten-round affair. Patterson is fast, can hit and is one of the top-notch lightweights in the ring today. He will meet the local heavy, Freddie Wilson, who is a local favorite, when they meet at the Southern A. C. Monday night. Roux has several fights in his record and is a local favorite. He has won all the rest.

Gahee Carries Punch.

Battling Gabee, negro heavy, is one of the toughest of the local contingent of boxers, carrying a wild punch in both hands and being a very hard hitter. He has won several victories in a row, his last being over Charlie Zide, a local middleweight, who had won 22 fights in a row before meeting Gabee and Freddie Wilson, who is Gabee's opponent Monday night.

Savo Langford, Boston negro heavy-weight, brings Wilson to Memphis and says Wilson will win over Gabee. He will challenge the local brawler for a battle, so confident is he that the Langford stable can trim Gabee. Where Gabee will consent to meet Langford or not is not known.

Young Jack Dempsey and Young Jack Baine, two local boys, will start things off. The house will be heated and everything made comfortable for the spectators.

The S. A. C. jazz band will provide a jazz menu throughout the evening.

VOLUNTEER "FIVE" AT WORK; PROSPECTS POOR

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 1.—The University of Tennessee basketball team Monday began practice in earnest. Tennessee will suffer this year from a lack of proper facilities for training. With teams like Washington and Lee, University of Virginia and V. P. L., the Volunteers must be discounted at least 50 per cent.

But, according to Coach Bender, Tennessee is going ahead and will do the best possible under the conditions. The Volunteers team will play the University of Virginia in 1916 on its trip and hopes to make sufficient showing to entitle it to be retained on the schedule in the future.

The "chief" is arranging as hard a schedule as possible, knowing full well that there will be many defeats, but by playing these first-class institutions it gives Tennessee a number one schedule standing and excellent experience for the men.

Don't be misled. We're coming down. Strictly all week hand-hauled. Route 140 to 175. Wear Memphis-made goods.

SOUTHERN FOOTBALL RULE UNDER FIRE.
When the annual fall meeting of the Southern League convenes in Memphis two weeks from now club owners in the Dixie major are going to launch an attack on the seven-player or rookie rule, as it is called last season. That the majority of club owners favor a drastic revision of the rule is certain, and when the league convenes they are going to present their claims in the favor of a resolution, in an effort to have the rule changed so as to better fit the existing conditions.

The rule served well last season and it was due to its effectiveness that the eight clubs in the Southern made money instead of dropping a bale of dough, as has marked other campaigns. The rule was made for the expressed purpose of helping the Southern to get back on its feet after the disastrous season of 1913, during the world war, when several clubs lost money. The rule worked well and all teams were able to retain their financial feet.

But a new condition confronts the league now. Next season is expected to be a red-letter one in the history of Southern baseball. The plan is to have the best possible brand of baseball on tap for the fans who so nobly stood by the clubs when they were not able to give real class A ball, under which the Dixie major is listed.

So the club owners are going to ask for a decided pruning of the rule, and when they are through with it, it is quite probable that the rule will call for not more than five rookies on a team, which will give each club a chance to take care of the youngsters on its team and at the same time get hold of all possible players who have had previous experience in class A leagues or better.

LOCAL FOOTBALL

More interest was manifested in the local football season this year than at any time since the introduction of the league sport in Memphis. At every game, fans fairly swarmed to see the athletes battle each other in the arena and carry the ball from one end of the field to the other.

The attendance reached a higher figure in the University of Tennessee at the closing battle between Central high school and Memphis university. This evening at the game at the University of Tennessee, the stands were packed. It merely goes to show that Memphis, as strong as the football game and the local prep school players, are going to be augmented by bigger and stronger outfits playing here while the Memphis teams are performing elsewhere.

TWAS A TOUGH DAY FOR PITCHERS WHEN THESE WHALES WENT ON BATTING RAMPAGE

Now there comes a deadly quiet. O'er the campus, raising hell. As the halfback tackles Plato, Greek and English for a spell. Soon the quarter faces logic. Giving lay the double cross. As he dodges mathematics. But is tumbled for a loss.

Now the fullback's set and ready. As he hears his signal call. For a plunge at interference. Found about the physics' hall. But the Ted Coy of the sport page. Where the daily headlines gleam. Fumbles at his bowl and pestle. Like a dub upon the gleam.

Vanished is his erstwhile glory. Faded his supporting band. When he lights the Bunsen burner With a cold and shaky hand. Now he drifts from 10-yard dashes. Bucks and tackles in the smear. To a room where unknown phrases Mystify the lectures' dream.

Walsh's Stationery. Tommy Walsh draws more than his share of panning from the scribers. Nevertheless he manages to keep his name in print, which is mostly what he needs. Regardless of how he goes about the task it must be said that he generally arrives at his designated point.

The main thing about Walsh is that he is a hustler and rarely ever allows the moss to accumulate around his feet. After losing Pal Moore from the stable—temporarily—maybe he has come back with a vengeance and is going to boost his next best boy, Joe Burman.

As the society editor might state, Tommy has a clean blue and green color scheme and has gone to the greatest extremes to advance his project. Quite deftly parked in the upper left-hand corner of the page is the name of the man who is the greatest threat to his position.

Tommy has never seen either of these places he claims them just the same. Further down on the same sheet may be found this bit of useful information: We have many other boys in tall classes. We will fill your card or book your entire show, no matter how large or small.

Tommy now includes: Charlie White, the premier lightweight; Johnny Griffiths, Akro's flash and new water-repellent champion; Joe Burman, sensational bantam star, "the boy with the punch"; George K-O Brown, "The Spartan"; and Chris Brown, a favorite lightweight, "a coming star."

In speaking of Burman Walsh writes: "I read your paper the other day and note where you say that the boy with the punch is the boy you make Well, Joe Burman is the boy you will bet that Burman knows just how to use the limit, for Burman is the boy that caused Pal Moore so much worry. And he should not have done so, for Burman always boasted Moore and thinks he is the greatest bantam in the world."

They are now trying to arrange a Burman-Walsh fight in Milwaukee and said to have been made for $10,000.
